

Lucrecia Yáñez obtained her degree in Medicine in 2000 and her Physician doctorate in 2015, both at the University of Cantabria. She is consultant in Hematology since 2006 at the Marqués de Valdecilla University Hospital in Santander and works actively in the field of hematopoietic stem cell transplantation and cellular therapy as well as in the study of chronic lymphocytic leukemia with participation in several clinical trials.

Since January 2007 she teaches at the University of Cantabria as Assistant Professor obtaining the ANECA accreditation in 2018 and has been invited as speaker in national and international meetings.

Currently, Dr. Yáñez is an active member of the Spanish Society of Hematology and Hemotherapy (SEHH), the Spanish Group of CLL (GELLC), the Spanish Group of Stem Cell Transplantation and Cellular Therapy (GETC-TC), the European Group of Bone Marrow Transplantation (EBMT) and the American Society of Hematology (ASH).