

Dr. Pilar Zamora is a Senior Consultant Oncologist at La Paz University Hospital (IdiPAZ Research Institute, Madrid, Spain). She is certified in medical oncology. She belongs to the Spanish Society of Medical Oncology (SEOM) and the Spanish Society of Palliative Care (SECPAL).

She coordinates the Breast Cancer Oncology Unit at La Paz University Hospital and is secretary of the Breast Pathology Committee of Hospital La Paz.

Her clinical and research focuses are clinical organization of multidisciplinary breast cancer oncology teams, treatment of patients with early-stage and advanced breast cancer. She is a principal investigator in multiple phase II and III clinical trials in the treatment of early and advanced breast cancer.

Dr. Zamora is member of CIBERONC and collaborates with Dr. Lopez Fernandez in the GECAME and Cardiotox group that investigates the cardiotoxicity of anthracyclines in patients with breast cancer.

Dr. Zamora has published multiple articles and book chapters and has presented communications at various national and international conferences on breast cancer.

